Thanks Roger. I found a presentation Hartten used at a conference that had good info too. This is better.

Hey Steve – Please see attached for information submitted by DuPont (Washington Works facility) concerning carbon treatment for private water supplies impacted by PFOA. As you can see, there are two in-line carbon filters with three sampling points. Andrew Hartten was the project manager from DuPont. He can provide detailed information on the treatment (contact information in letter). Please call me if you have any questions.
